Compassionate Lanarkshire (CLAN) aims to support vulnerable and isolated individuals and families in Lanarkshire with life-limiting conditions or long term progressive illnesses in Lanarkshire.

We urgently need caring people who can offer an hour or two each week to visit a client in their own home or take them out for a short trip.

Volunteers are a vital part of the service helping to reduce loneliness and isolation, helping people keep links with their local community or giving carers a bit of time to themselves without feeling guilty.

Volunteers get a great deal of pleasure from their visits, the activities they do and the special connections that they develop.

No specific experience is required as training and support is provided.
